

Economics Against Abuse Training

Do you work with victims of domestic violence?

If so, take advantage of Economics Against Abuse Training, a remarkable opportunity sponsored by the Allstate Foundation.

The Economics Against Abuse Training is a train-the-trainer program that provides an opportunity for professionals of domestic violence and women's service organizations to deliver financial empowerment training directly to clients of their organizations. This initiative puts program delivery in the control of the organization. The sessions will be conducted by the New York State Coalition Against Domestic Violence.

The newly revised material covers five subject modules: understanding financial abuse, financial fundamentals, credit basics, creating financial foundations, and creating budgeting strategies. Training for the program is offered in a single day session and is FREE.

The programs will take place at Adelphi's campuses from 9:00 to 3:30 on the following dates and locations:

Wednesday, February 9th in Manhattan

Tuesday, March 8th in Hauppauge

Wednesday, March 9th in Garden City

To register, or if you would like further information, please contact Diane Wunderlich at (516) 877-4415 or e-mail dwunderlich@adelphi.edu.