

FACULTY-LED STUDY ABROAD IN CRETE

ARCHAEOLOGICAL ANTHROPOLOGY

ACADEMICS

Undergraduate students must register for:
Field School in Physical Anthropology/Archaeology, 0103-333 (3-6 credits).

Graduate students must register for:
Fieldwork and Laboratory Techniques Archaeology & Physical Anthropology, 103-733 (3-6 credits).

All students have the option to enroll in:
On Site Technical Drawing in Archaeology & Bioarchaeology 103-220 (1 credit).

FACULTY DIRECTORS

Anagnostis Agelarakis, Professor and Chair,
Department of Anthropology,
agelarakis@adelphi.edu

Argiro Agelarakis, Faculty Part Time, Department of Anthropology, aagelarakis@adelphi.edu

PROGRAM COSTS

Total Estimated cost: $1,300 + tuition + airfare

Price includes:

- Accommodation
- Meals
- Site entries & excursions
- Crete-based transportation
- International health insurance

Additional Expenses:

- Tuition per number of credits taken charged at a discounted rate of $780/undergraduate credit and $875/graduate credit (charged to tuition account).
- Adelphi Study Abroad fee of $150 (charged to tuition account.)
- Students are responsible for booking own flights (estimated $1,400)
- Personal expenses, passport and luggage fees.

PROGRAM DATES: June/July 2017

Spend three weeks this summer in Crete gaining hands-on experience in excavation, recovery and study of the human skeletal remains at the burial ground of Orthi Petra.

For over 20 years, Professors Anagnostis and Argiro Agelarakis have offered students special access to this ancient site, which in 2009 was distinguished as one of Archaeology's Top 10 Global Discoveries. For the duration of the program, students are based in Eleutherna, an agricultural and shepherding community, and immersed in local culture. Excursions include guided tours to the Caves of Zeus and the Minoan sites of Knossos and Monastiraki. Students will have guest lectures from two world-renowned experts: Dr. N. Stampolidis, Director of the Museum of Cycladic Art, and Dr. A. Kanta, Director of Antiquities Emerita, Herakleion, Crete. Students will work at the new Eleutherna Archaeological Museum on the Late Minoan IIIC Warrior's Burial of Krousonas site.

In addition to participating in anthropological fieldwork, students learn about the medicinal and culinary uses of regional plants, participate in ceramic workshops, and hike on E4 (the European long-distance path). This program is open to all majors and students from other institutions.

