Our Service Promise

We know you have many different options when it comes to choosing a location to hold your next meeting or event. At Adelphi, when you choose our campus and put your trust in us, we take that responsibility very seriously.

Nestled in the Village of Garden City, one of the safest neighborhoods on Long Island, our campus is the perfect place for any youth program. In addition to our dedicated team of Public Safety Officers that patrol the campus 24-7, all staff that work meetings and events go through annual safety training and emergency response and are especially attuned to the unique challenges of working with youth in a campus environment. We offer many structured activities for youth to complement your program agenda and keep your participants busy, as well as large lawns and outdoor fields for group activities, team building, and just burning off some of that youthful energy.

Additionally, our campus is welcoming to all individuals, having won an Excellence in Diversity award the past four years, and achieving a perfect 5-star rating for Campus Pride due to support for the LGBTQIA+ community. When you are at Adelphi, you are a valued member of our community.

Our high-quality facilities and services are available to all youth attendees, from elementary grades through high-school, and offer them their first taste of college life.

A Place to Grow

A university campus is the perfect setting for a youth program. As a university dedicated to educating students, providing them with cultural and fine arts experiences, and offering the best in recreational and athletic spaces, we have world-class facilities of all types and sizes in one easily walkable location. Your attendees can utilize our wide variety of classrooms, auditoriums, multi-purpose ballrooms, performance and workshop venues, outdoor fields, and even our athletic facilities to foster growth and personal exploration. Many of our facilities have been recently renovated to include new furnishings, updated technology, and sustainable building systems that are environmentally friendly and reduce the university's carbon footprint, including the new Ruth S. Harley University Center, completed in 2021.

Technology is a cornerstone of education today, and our facilities reflect that. The entire campus is covered by a secure Wi-Fi network, easily accessible by your attendees. Our smart classrooms and auditoriums feature teaching islands connected to video projection and sound systems, making it easy to give multimedia presentations to presentations from your laptop or downloaded materials. Audio-visual of all types can be provided in any of the multi-purpose spaces or unique meeting rooms on campus, or in the concert hall and performance theaters. Rest assured, we provide service and support throughout your entire event to ensure that things run smoothly, and that the technology supports individual learning instead of distracting from it.

A Place to Stay

After a full day of education, activity, and growth, it is important to have someplace comfortable and safe to call home for the night. Our seven, unique residence halls offer up to 500 bedspaces from late-May through early-August for groups of different sizes to stay on-campus during your event. We take great care to place your group in the ideal campus accommodations based on your needs and budget, keeping your attendees blocked together in their own wing, floor, or building, as appropriate, and separated by gender, as needed.

Many of our residence halls feature double- and triple-occupancy rooms complete with beds, dressers, desks, and closets. Participants can bring their own linens or sleeping bags, or we can provide linens for your use. In most halls, gender-specific shared community bathrooms are found in the center of each wing or floor and are cleaned daily by housekeeping staff. There are multiple lounge areas throughout each hall where participants can hang out, as well as a central kitchen and laundry room.

For groups with a higher budget, our other residence halls feature suite-style accommodations or private bathrooms, in-room temperature controls, and multiple lounges and meeting rooms designed to accommodate small-group activities.

Need housing accommodations during the academic year or for your dignitaries and special guests? No problem! There are several 3-star and 4-star hotels within 5 miles of campus that can host your attendees as needed. Contact our team for recommendations and referrals.

A Place to Eat

Whether your participants are fueling up for a full day of athletic activities or preparing to spend the day in the lab, on stage, or behind a computer, we know that that a balanced menu is critical to their success.

Yes, our dining hall serves hamburgers, chicken nuggets, and pizza, but it also serves baked chicken, grilled salmon, mixed vegetables, fresh pasta, and a daily salad bar, all capped off with rotating dessert options. We can even customize your individual program experience by substituting a box lunch, barbecue, banquet, or picnic as your program requires. Or, for the ultimate flexibility, your attendees can use a declining-balance card to eat in our new food court in the University Center, with options such as Carved & Crafted, 500 Degrees (pizza), Asian Fusion, and a full-service Starbucks Coffee.

We also offer a wide range of cultural, ethnic, and sustainable food preparations in addition to many gluten-free and plant-based menu items.

Our menus regularly include vegetarian, vegan, and halal offerings which can be included for all participants or managed on an individual basis. For those attendees that have special dietary needs, our chefs and licensed dietician work directly with you to ensure all their food service needs are accommodated.

The Best of Long Island...

We know that it can be difficult to plan a full agenda for a youth camp or program.

Across the island you can find everything you need to round out your group's agenda, from hitting the local beaches or amusement park to a wide range of cultural and entertainment activities:
